A: I would like to exchange this dress.
B: You can exchange this dress with anything of the same value.
A: Is there anything on sale today?
B: I'm sorry. There are no sales today.
A: Are dresses going to be on sale?
B: Everything's going to be on sale next weekend.
A: That's great. I'll wait. See you next weekend.
B: Okay. I'll see you then.

2

A: I want to exchange this dress.
B: You can exchange it with anything of the same price.
A: Are there any sales today?
B: We're having a big sale next weekend, but nothing today.
A: What's going to be on sale?
B: Dresses, skirts, blouses, pantsuits... everything will be on sale.
A: That sounds great. I'll come back next weekend.
B: Okay. Don't forget to bring your credit card.

A: This dress doesn't fit correctly.
B: No problem. Shop around until you find something you like.
A: What's on sale today?
B: If you can wait until next weekend, you can save some money.
A: Do you know what's going to be on sale?
B: You'll be happy to know that everything in the store will be on sale.
A: I won't miss that. I'll wait until next weekend.
B: Great. Bring lots of cash so you can buy lots of things.

- A: I don't want to keep this dress.
B: Just leave the dress with me while you find one that you like.
A: Do you have anything on sale today?
B: Next weekend is our next sale date.
A: Do you have any idea what's going to be on sale?
B: Everything except the cash registers will be on sale.
A: That sounds good. I'll see you next weekend.
B: Okay. See you then.

- A: I've brought this dress back to exchange it.
B: That's not a problem. Leave it with me, and find something that you like.
A: I was hoping you'd have something on sale today.
B: We have nothing on sale today. But we're having a big sale next weekend.
A: Is the sale going to include dresses?
B: Everything you can see will be on sale.
A: I like the sound of that. I'll just come back next weekend.
B: The savings will be worth the short wait. See you next weekend.
